- scripting services
- ongoing support and health checks
- test tool mentoring and training
- fixed price managed service option
- maintenance and reporting

Testing is time consuming, repetitive and resource intensive. But it's absolutely fundamental to the quality of your software and the reputation of your business.

Test automation, particularly for highly repetitive regression testing, can considerably reduce your investment in time, money and resources. It will also increase the coverage and quality of your testing. Test automation is not just about buying a tool. You will need to consider how you use it and invest in your automation strategy.

Our Automation Practice can make sure that you get the returns you expect. This might mean supplying test automation resource, helping you select a testing tool or providing a complete managed service.

What do we offer?

We're very flexible but always straightforward in the way we work with clients. We have a number of popular service offerings, but are happy to tailor our service to fit your more specific needs.

We can recommend a test tool to suit your budget and requirements, or we can work with a test tool that you already have.

Scripting Services

Dedicated consultants to automate your regression suite and functional testing.

Our consultant will work with your team members to get a complete understanding of your application and tests. We'll carry out frequent review sessions to make sure your regression suite fully meets your requirements. At the end of the scripting phase, we will do a full handover, including guidance on how to maintain the scripts. If needed, we can also include tool training.

Of course, it doesn't have to stop there. We can provide ongoing support and health checks to make sure that your automation solution doesn't become shelfware.

Training and Mentoring

When we provide training on test tools, we want to leave you feeling confident that you can use the tool on your own. More often than not, this is best achieved through informal training rather than prescribed courses.

We can offer training on a number of tools depending on your applications. Everyone learns differently so we employ a variety of training methods - from 'classroom' style training, through hands-on workshops, to one-on-one sessions and longer term coaching and mentoring.

Managed Service

With our Managed Service, you benefit from access to a combination of market leading test tools and Centre4 Testing expertise.

We take away all of the effort of managing, developing, maintaining and executing your automated testing, and give you a fixed price plan that reduces your up-front investment by 50%, smoothing the cost over the lifetime of the contract. We can also bundle certain test tool licence costs and contracts into one simple overall contract.

We will work with you to build your regression suite using the most appropriate test tool. We'll maintain and operate the regression suite and report testing results in your chosen format.

We charge all testing on new releases on a simple pre-agreed time and materials basis.

About Centre4 Testing

We've been involved in software testing for a long time. Over a decade ago, our founding directors set up the UK's largest test consulting firm before floating it and selling it to a FTSE100 company.

We have a highly knowledgeable and experienced team of test consultants who provide strategic consultancy, test automation and managed services. If it's simply test resource that you are after, we can supply software testers at all levels - test managers, test analysts and test automation specialists.

You can expect a no-nonsense, cost-effective approach to software testing. Our objective is simply to ensure that you have the very best testing strategy and resources to deliver your projects quickly and easily at an acceptable level of cost and risk.
